

New look and streamlined experience

You'll be impressed the next time you sign in to aig.com/RetirementServices

We've made some enhancements to your online account.

What's new?

Your enhanced online account has a simple, streamlined look and feel created to give you quick access to the data you want most, such as total current balance, performance and statements.

This design overhaul goes beyond a facelift. We've simplified the entire experience and brought more relevant information to you, making it easier to navigate and digest.

Is the "Overview" the same as your "Workspace"?

No. The Workspace is being replaced by the new Overview, which is designed in a dashboard format. We've included all your plan information up front, making it easy to see at a glance.

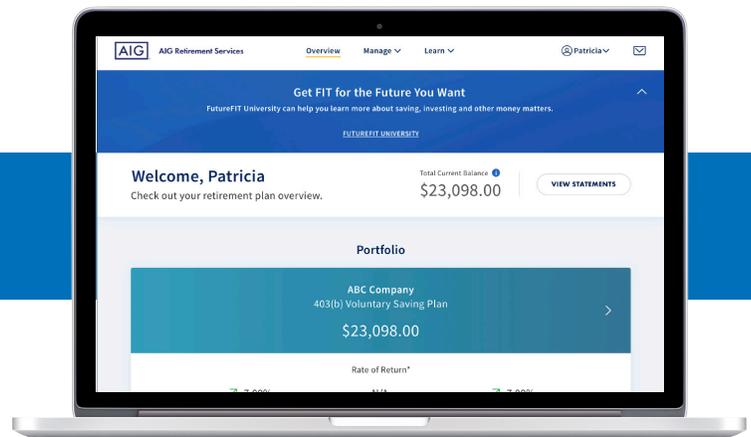

How can I check my account balances?

Account balances are available on the Overview within each plan section. Click to expand and reveal additional details about that plan.

How do I check or change my contribution rate?

Check or manage contributions by selecting "Act" from the top navigation menu and selecting "Manage Contributions" from the dropdown menu.

Check your retirement progress anytime, anywhere.

New look and streamlined experience

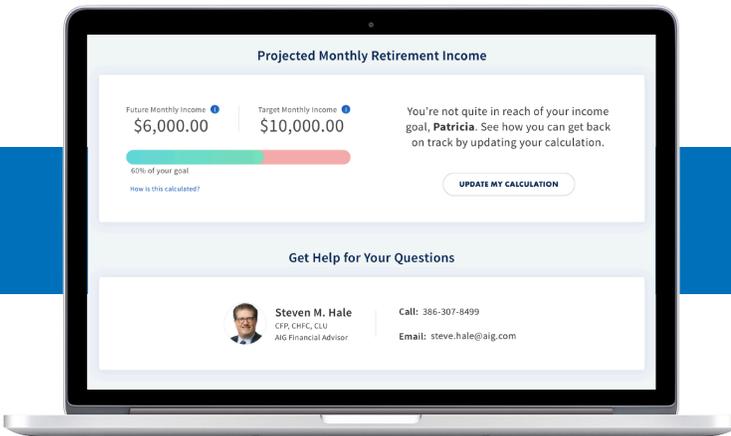

Can I still access the calculator?

Yes, the retirement income calculator is available on the Overview. We changed the circle chart to a bar chart with a flag that represents your saving progress. The income calculator on our mobile app features the same design, creating a seamless experience.

What types of accounts can I see on the Overview?

Several types of plans and accounts could display on the Overview. These include: Employer plans, Individual Retirement Accounts, NonQualified plans, Annuity Accounts, Personal Accounts, Outside Investments* and others. Based on the type of account and the information available, you could see employer name, plan name, account name, balance and/or performance.

* This plan card only populates and updates when you manually enter the information.

See how small increases can easily add up over time.
